Brodsky |June 4, 2005 The most important victory for the Southern cause of the Civil War came before the Union defenders of Gettysburg. On May 13, 1863, at the Battle of Fredericksburg, the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia won the first battle of the war for the South, captured seven Union guns and killed 5,000 Union soldiers. The Confederates then captured the city of Fredericksburg and held it for two days. But the Civil War was not over. At Gettysburg, on July 1, 1863, the war saw the first significant battle resulting in a Confederate victory and the second bloodiest battle of the war after the Battle of Shiloh, which the Union defeated. The battle marked the beginning of guerrilla warfare, which continued to occur in the South for c6a93da74d
